Villa close to Florence, located on Marignolle hill, and built in the early 1960s by architect Leonardo Savioli, one of the leading exponents of the Tuscany school that gave life to some of the most important works of Italian architecture and Tuscany in the postwar period.

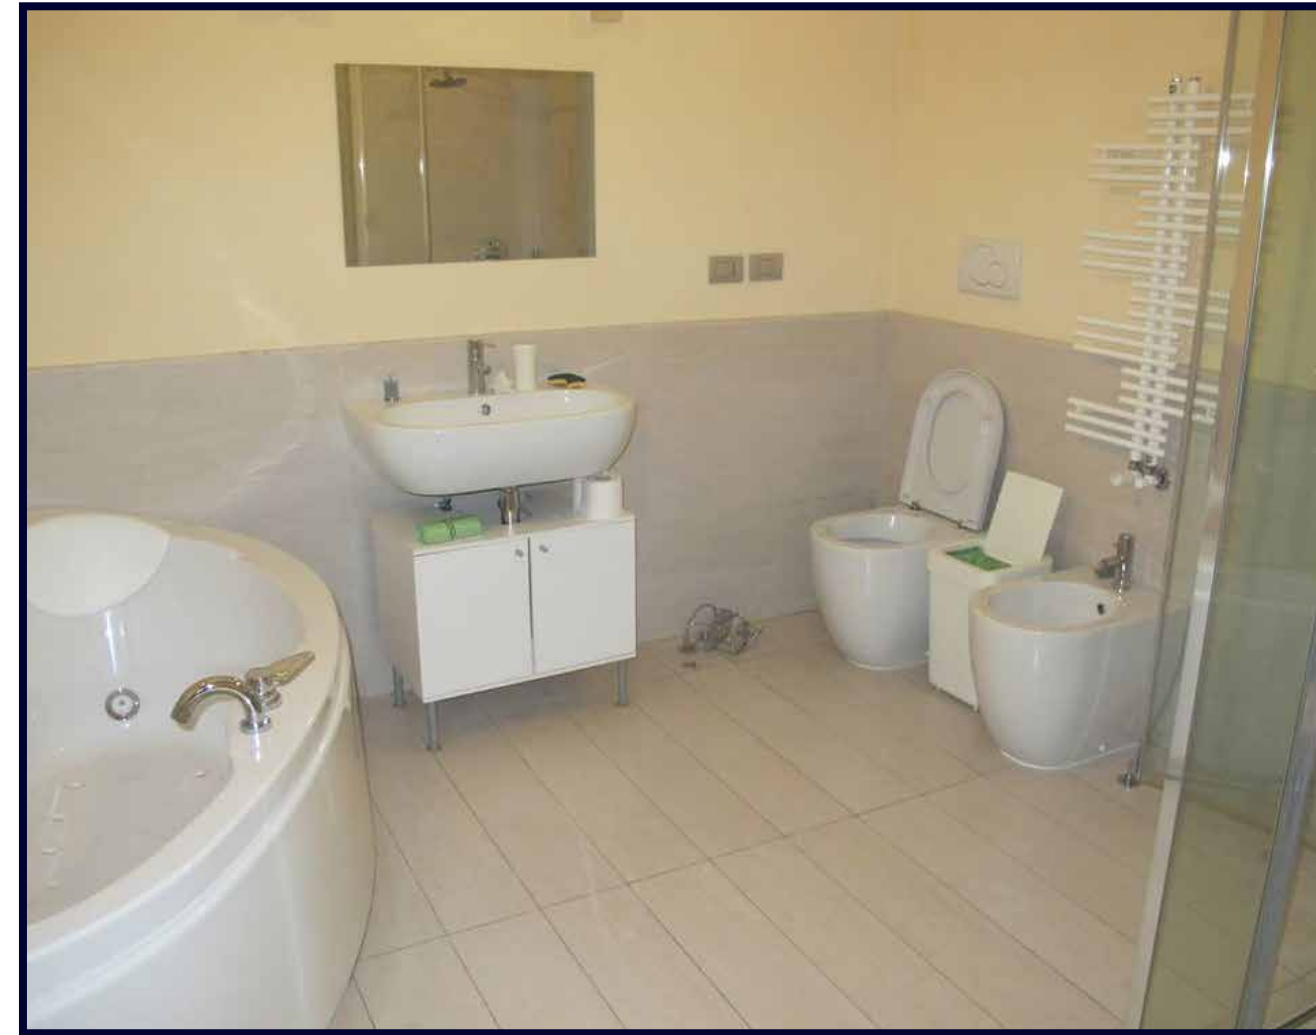

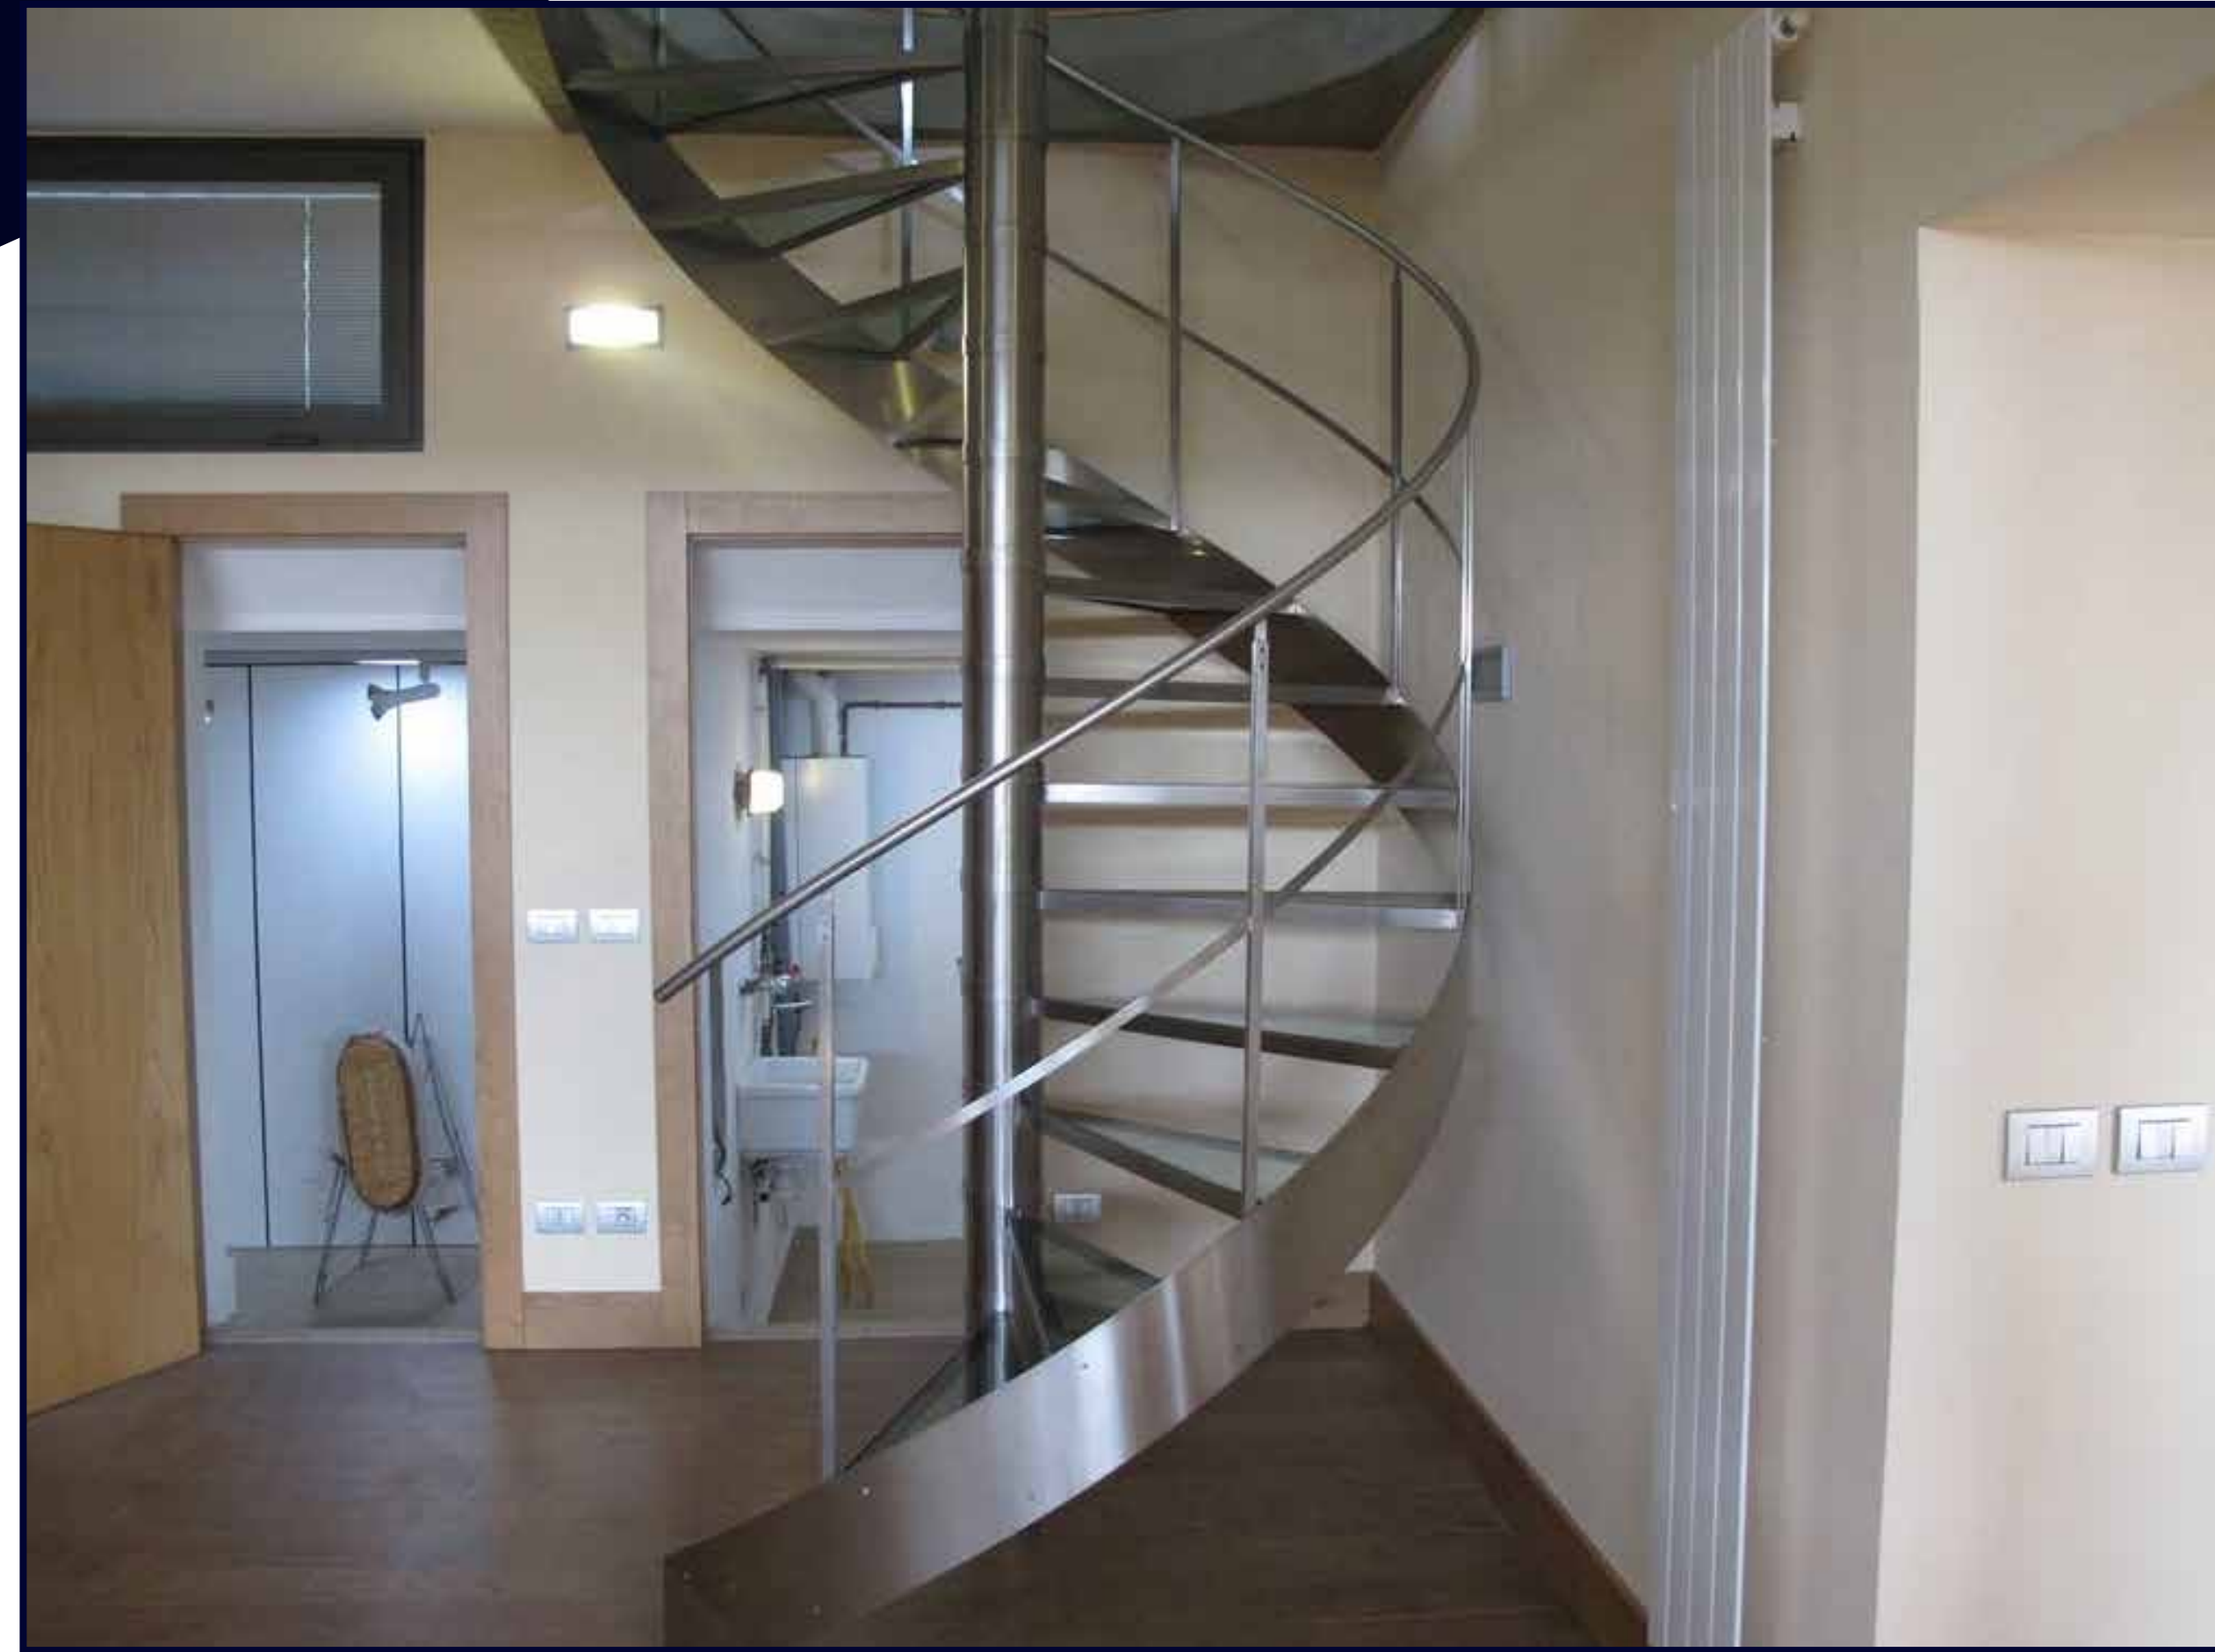

The villa is characterized by reinforced concrete pillars insight and by a terrace that covers the entire roof, and which offers a panoramic view of the surrounding hills. The villa is surrounded by a garden and an olive grove where a beautiful pool is being built.

The living room consists of a very large open space with particular steel finishes and an open kitchen with an adjacent loggia.

The night area has 5 bedrooms while the bathrooms are also five. The property is completed with several technical rooms and an underground garage.
